"We both are from US. The programme allowed us to visit other centres to study. Going to another center for a workshop is a great learning experience. We went to a workshop in Dubai and attended a class on corporate governance with students from the Middle East and Africa. Their business and management culture is very different from what we know. In our workshop, we were assigned a case study on a recent ruling not to allow high court female judges in Egypt which was so foreign to us. This case study has broadened my exposure and thinking."

"We were also mixed with students of different backgrounds in the workshops and we liked this workshop-based format as we could put what was studied to practice immediately."
